

FOURTH GRADE Roy Lichtenstein

I think we're much smarter than we were. Everybody knows that abstract art can be art, and most people know that they may not like it, even if they understand there's another purpose to it

- Roy Lichtenstein

Print: Roy Lichtenstein Calendar

Biography:

<http://www.artchive.com/artchive/L/lichtenstein.html>

Books: Roy Lichtenstein by Janet Boris
Available at local libraries

Materials: Available in Art Masterpiece Room

Roy Lichtenstein 'self portrait' Directions

Materials: Paper 9 x 12
 Markers
 Pencils

Give a short summary of Roy Lichtenstein's life or read portions of a book about him.

Then the student will draw, in pencil, self-portraits, focusing on proportion and accuracy and filling the entire paper. Then have the students glamorize them, exaggerating feature and making them more personal. Draw talk balloon if desired to hold some simple word like wow or pow. Then color the drawings using ONLY primary colors – red, yellow and blue.

Please also send home a short note letting parents know what project we did in art masterpiece. (Please see sample note at the end of the packet)

Art Masterpiece

Today in Art Masterpiece we learned about Roy Lichtenstein and his art. We also created our own self portrait today. These projects will be displayed at Art Walk.

Art Masterpiece

Today in Art Masterpiece we learned about Roy Lichtenstein and his art. We also created our own self portrait today. These projects will be displayed at Art Walk.

